What: fullPage.js by Alvaro Trigo

Description: A full screen viewport that allows full background of colors, images, or videos to occupy your whole screen.

Why: I chose this plugin because I have seen single page websites that have been designed this way and just like the look of it. It's very conducive to the viewing experience with page scrolls and navigation. I have been searching for a code that will allow me to create such an experience, and fullPage.js gave just that. It far exceeds my expectations for what the plugin allows. I feel this is something that I will find very useful as a designer and programmer.
